You have made it to your last year of high school. Congratulations! You've used this roadmap, your High School Learning Plan, to get you where you are: on-track to graduate. Before you leave high school to pursue a career, a certificate program, or college, there are a few things you should start wrapping up in order to be successful after graduation. Take a few minutes to reflect on the plans and goals you've had in the past and answer the following questions:

Since starting the new school year have there been any last-minute changes that you made to this plan? Did you change your goal?

Are you still on track to meet your current goals? If not, what reason, solution, or next steps do you need to take to reach your new goals?

Are you still interested in the plan that you are following?
